Ways Parents Can Support What Their Child Is Doing in School

1. Make reading an everyday habit at home
2. Communicate with your child's teacher
3. Monitor and assist with homework assignments
4. Review information sent home from the school (progress monitoring data) and ask questions if you need help understanding the report
5. Share your child's successes
6. Learn more about the curriculum and interventions being used in your child's school
7. Attend parent/teacher conferences and other school meetings about your child
8. Ask your child's teacher for specific ways you can work with your child at home to support what they are learning in RTI² and the classroom

Using RTI² to determine Special Education eligibility is only for the category of Specific Learning Disability

What if I Feel My Child Is Still Failing?

- Consider the possible need for a Special Education referral if your child continues to struggle with reading and/or math after Tier II and Tier III intervention.
- You may request an evaluation for Special Education in writing, and the school must respond to your request.
- If decision is made to evaluate the school will ask for your consent and the evaluation must be completed within the initial evaluation timeline.
- If the school decides not to evaluate they must tell you why in writing.
